MR. HERMAN RICHARDSON

The Class of 1950 extends its best wishes and heartiest welcome to our new superintendent, Mr. Herman Richardson, hoping that he will enjoy his stay with us in Sharon. Although he has been with us for only a short period of time, we have come to know him well and appreciate his kind efforts and friendly interest in us.

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

Your graduation is at hand. You have reached another mile-stone in your travel through Life. During the past twelve years you have been offered an opportunity, through guided experiences, to prepare for useful citizenship. If you have studied diligently and entered into the other activities of your school's program with earnest enthusiasm, you will have acquired for yourself certain skills and knowledge that will assist you greatly as you either continue with your studying or enter business or industry.

I sincerely wish you every success in your future undertakings. Remember that your reward for honest effort is the respect of those with whom you will be associated as well as monetary gain. May you continue to be interested in the affairs of the school for this school is your school.

Harold A. Clark

Principal

DEDICATION

To Miss Chase and Mr. Mahoney

We, the Class of 1950, express our heartfelt appreciation and sincere gratitude for their invaluable assistance throughout our high school years. We shall never be able to forget their patience, friendship, and untiring efforts to assist us in both our schoolwork and outside activities.

Marsengold Astounds Fashion Experts

Salutations, Solar Sisters!

Sitting in front of our television set, we pressed the button marked "Living Roo.n Entertainment," and sat back to enjoy the current fashion news of yesteryear in the discovered "Marsengold."

First, the picture of the entire staff flashed into view. Then, one by one, the members appeared in their outlandish apparel. Sitting on our atomic heaters in our soft spun-plastic dresses, we shivered daintily at the idea of wearing scratchy wool.

Box-like contraptions attached to each foot were, we learned, what they called shoes. What a pity that Earthians of that era were not born with reinforced soles as we are. Some of these so-called shoes had raised platforms to make the wearer taller. Whereas today one has but to press his left eyeball to increase his height, and to press the right one to decrease it (a favorable process in time of war).

We have presented only a small sample of what is pictured in the ancient paper, recently unearthed. More will appear in the following pages.

Leisure Life in 1950

By Robin A. Molecule

Needless to say, the topic at all Skimmed-Milk-Bars this past week has been the 1950 "Marsengold" with its pages providing free jokes to all. Of predominating interest to yours truly were the uncanny, so-called activities of these peculiar people. Two-fifteen must have had a great bearing on their nerve centers, for we read of mad scrambling in the halls for freedom. Strange that they professed

1950 MARSENGOLD STAFF

Pictured above is the 1950 "Marsengold" staff which has provided much entertainment for the subscribers of the "Rocket Reader" during the past week. Our historians are amazed that so much ingenuity and clever ability could be displayed, considering the inadequate methods of that day. Below are listed the names of those who participated in that remarkable project of yesterday.

Investigation of Sharon H.S. Ruins Discloses Valuable Information

June 8, 2000—Nation-wide hilarity was produced today as the 1950 "Marsengold" newspaper was presented at a premier performance on the screen of the Lunaversal Cinema in Boston. Rocket ships were lined for miles around, with people holding their uranium-coated tickets in hopes of being some of the lucky Earthians to view the spectacular fantasy. Of major interest to the astounded public was the weird appearance of this ancient race. There must have been a nation-wide shortage of razor blades as pictures disclose that they allowed hair to grow above their eyes and on the tops of their heads. Evidently the pocket had not been invented in 1950, as these same pictures show strange holes, probably used for extra carrying space, in a protruding structure between what we determine to be their eyes and mouth. Small apricot-shaped structures, projecting from underneath a mass of jungle-like wire, we assume to be ears. But how, we wonder, did they obtain contact between the sun and the moon without the aid of our extended earlobes which contain built-in walky-talkies? However, these weird people must have possessed strange prophetic insight, for the yellowed pages which have been unearthed contain prophecies of the group's activities twenty-five years hence, which we know to have taken place. We quote the strange document in full.

CLAIRVOYANT PREDICTS FUTURE

PROPHECY

The last diploma had been passed from hand to hand, the last handshake had been given, and the last tear had been shed, as the Class of 1950 gathered outside their Alma Mater. Over the roar of blowouts, backfires and other mechanical disorders, the procession of hot-rods was on its way at the amazing clip of twenty-five miles per hour—destination, the land of awe and mystery, Nantasket. Ten traffic tickets and fourteen flat tires later we renamed ourselves the "Order of the Crimson Light" due to the numerous stop lights we so blithely ignored. On arrival we trooped down the boardwalk, resembling a group of convicts on their first parole as we "cased" the joint. Swami Zinglehoffer caught our attention as we observed her removing her teeth and swishing them in pink lemonade. Deciding she would prove interesting, to say the least, we entered her exotic retreat which reminded us of the north door at Sharon High. Pat Allen and Marilyn Jerauld were the first to breeze boldly through the curtains of the Swami's den. Bending over the crystal ball Pat yelled, "Why, that's just an upside down coffee percolator with the grounds still in it!"

The Swami, gently boxing her ears, said, "It's merely a figment of your imagination," and proceeded to prophesy their future. "I see you, Marilyn, bending over a hot stove holding a Clay pot, and Patty absent-mindedly shoving her four children away from her apron strings. Don't be so Willy-nilly. Next, please."

Naturally Bev and Jean were dying to see in which direction they were headed, so they barged through the door, beaming from ear to ear, and said, "What do you prophesy for us, Swami?"

"Jean," she answered, "I see you wheeling a four-year-old private patient into the operating room and into the very capable hands of Beverly Stewart, surgical nurse. Do I have any more customers?"

With a roar of squeaks and squeals the students gently pushed the red-faced Robert Murray and Eddie Baldwin through the door. Rising with a face full of pink lemonade, Robert stammered, "Will you please tell us our futures?"

"Just a minute," Swami said, "I have to locate you. I see Africa, the land of darkness, and—wait! There, among the tropical swamps, I see you both stealthily creeping through the brush in search of a crocodile."

"Oh, no, it can't be," they screamed, and fainted dead away!

As they dragged these poor children away, Carolyn Bodwell and John Stressenger, the latter limping, came in, hand in hand, looking very contented. "I see your future in your eyes," related the Swami; "and now send your next friends in."

Elaine Golden finally succeeded in breaking the door down and ran up to the crystal ball, with Davy dragging on the floor behind her, screaming, "Hurry, I can hardly wait."

"Just a minute, young lady; your future isn't exactly clear. Here—wait a minute. Now I can see you hurrying through a newspaper office in an effort to get your column in before the deadline, with this young man still behind you. What delayed you—as if I didn't know!"

Warren Cole gracefully stumbled in, carrying a typewriter, and asked hopefully, "What's gonna happen to me, Swami?"

Quoth the Swami blithely, "I see for you a brilliant future as secretary to a beautiful business woman. Have fun!"

Mary and Roberta breezed through the curtain, followed by Carole and Shirley, and, rushing up to the Swami, were informed that their Maison de Guillet and de la Pratt on the Rue de la Paix, was thriving and leading the fashion world. Of course this success was due to their modele charmante, Carole Sacks, and the helpful designing of Mademoiselle Shirley Ritter.

With a screech of brakes, Donald King hauled up and elbowed his way through the curtains. The Swami prophesied that his taxi company would serve the customers of the afore-mentioned style shop successfully.

Crawling out of the taxi's trunk, Skippy Smith slid through the curtains whispering to his confederates, "I got that ride free after all."

As Skippy approached the crystal ball, Jimmy Gregory bounded in behind him yelling loudly—"We ain't got no future, Swami."

After a glance in the crystal ball, color drained out of the Swami's face and she sadly confirmed the statement.

A shower of rice was thrown as Phil Bonz and Gwen Peters, the class lovebirds, waltzed in. Suddenly a white cottage, equipped with picket fence and ivy, materialized in the crystal ball. "Does that satisfy you, my children?" Swami asked, replacing her teeth.

As Stanley Parrish and Jeff Chamberlain glided sophisticatedly through the door, pennies were thrown at the two class entertainers in hopes that they would do a toe dance for the audience. "Your prophecy is in your faces," intoned the Swami as she turned away.

Elizabeth Hurley dove through the curtains and gasped excitedly, "Where does my future lie?"

"In the Norwood Arena," the Swami said, "as the first woman winner of the three-day endurance stock-car race, with Edmund Raeder setting the pace on his trusty bicycle. I do believe that's John Pruett sitting in the timer's box. No wonder Sharon won."

Eleanor Maria, with Eleanor Niethold tagging behind her, blithely jumped over the barrels of pink lemonade, and screamed, "Do we have a future, Swami?"

"I see stacks of silver piled in front of Eleanor Maria's cashier desk which were profits gained from the mouth-watering food served by Eleanor Niethold."

Pushing timidly forward, Anne Graham blushingly asked the Swami what the future held for her. Swami gazed in and described the view which she beheld. "A spectacular ice ballet with you as its star," she exclaimed. "I hope the ice is thick enough!"

As Anne made her way out, Tommy Markt leaped into the den. The crystal quickly focused. "I see you driving your father's oil truck with a sign saying 'No Riders'. Who's the passenger, Tommy?"

Trying to overcome the onrush of his classmates, Kenny Ornell quietly entered the room to have his future prophesied. The Swami related, "You are pictured dressed in the military uniform of a chaplain, proceeding through your chapel. Have I foreseen your hopes of the future correctly, Kenny?"

The group was pushed apart as Tommy Cleveland's and Jimmy Hagan's broad shoulders were seen boldly edging their way in. The Swami, without hesitation, exclaimed, "Well, if it isn't the stars of the Scintillating Celtics, champion basketball team of the world—Have you entered the Brockton Tournament yet, boys? Along with you fellows, I see your crack cheerleaders, Amber Ehrisman and Beverly Fakkel, the best cheerleaders for the best team ever."

Then the Swami took a quick peek in the crystal ball and saw the two universally famous scientists, John Deltano and Bruce Harding, diligently working on a formula for the oxygen bomb. In the same laboratory, Guy Littlefield and Robert Rodman were mixing a witch's brew in a giant coke glass, courtesy of Moulton's. Thank you. Their ever-ready secretaries, Margaret and Marie Minerva, could be seen typing laboriously in the offices of the atomic heater company, now and then dipping their hands into the cold freezer next to their desks.

As the Swami lifted her head, in came Robert Feist and Charlie Goodwin with their elevator shoes. "Speak not," said the Swami, "for I see you marching down South Main Street, carrying signs advertising the Empire State Building."

Arnold Mitchell and Ronald Hull, with Pat White between them, were the next in line. The Swami exclaimed, "Well, if it isn't Pat and Ronny, stars of the Arnold Mitchell production, Sally, Slave Girl of the Siberian Salt Mines?"

Bill Jeffords swaggered in, adjusting his bell-bottom trousers. "Ah-hah," said the Swami, "I see you drawing lots to decide which port to head for next. Why don't you give the cold girls in Chile a break, Bill?"

Pushing the button that pushes the buttons, in other words their husbands, Jeanette McDonald and Joan Steinmetz were next pictured in the crystal ball, as they applied corn plasters to their housemaid's knees.

Green rolling hills and red barns were next seen in the upside down coffee percolator as the Swami pantingly wiped her brow (what there was of it). "Why that's farmer Robert Lowden," she cried. "And who is that nurse with him? Why, its Evelyn Shankman, injecting his animals with small pox serum. I have prophesied my last future, I hope," sighed the Swami.

"No, you forgot us," screamed Hank, Itchy, and Frank as they crowded her back to her magic globe.

"So I have, so I have," she said unenthusiastically. "I see you boys as teachers in your former Alma Mater. You, Richard Butler, teaching English; you, Henry Hodgdon, as a gym teacher; and you, Frank Davidson, as mechanical drawing instructor."

As the Class of 1950 made their way gratefully into the clean, cool night air, they waved goodbye to the Swami, who certainly wasn't much to look at but just radiated personality!

Last Will and Testament

We, the members of the seventieth graduating class of Sharon High School (some charter members are still in our midst) being of unsound mind and body (after a particularly bad week-end) bequeath, willingly or otherwise, unto our successors the following gems of observation collected during our four years of servitude.

Patricia Allen leaves, resolving to shine her diamond every day.

Edwin Baldwin leaves his blush to Donald Wallace, who could use a little of Eddie's bashfulness.

Carolyn Bodwell leaves — late, as usual.

Philip Bonz leaves Gwen on the train to Vassar—awww!

Richard Butler leaves—wait a minute, he forgot!

Prescott Chamberlain leaves his specialty of glue-finished furniture to any daring underclassman.

Thomas Cleveland leaves his spot on the first team to Norman Robillard. Keep your eye on the ball, Rogie.

Warren Cole leaves his pink shirts to his brother Butch, who, he thinks, will be agreeable to the idea.

Francis Davidson leaves his Toni Refill Kit to Al Kafka, for "the wave that gives that natural look".

John Deltano leaves, still firmly believing the Braves will win a World Series. Don't hold your breath waiting, John.

Amber Ehrisman leaves her love for animals to Norma Osborn—and we do mean horses!

Beverly Fakkel leaves with a ticket to Bar Harbor. Don't work too hard, Bev.

Robert Feist leaves his place on the baseball team to Joe Monahan.

Elaine Golden leaves her witty remarks for any occasion to Shirley Alexander. Can you stay up all night thinking of wisecracks for the next day, Shirley?

Charles Goodwin leaves his spectacular stature to George Griffin. Is it snowing up there, Sonny?

Anne Graham leaves her letters from Quincy to Marilyn Watterson. Keep the stamp right side up, kids!

James Gregory leaves for parts unknown.

Roberta Guillet leaves her passion for alumni to Nancy, who we know will carry on the famliy "line". Keep it straight, Sis!

James Hagan leaves his golden tresses to Jimmy Boyden, to complement his Kirk Douglas appearance.

Bruce Harding leaves for Michigan. Hi-ho, Alice.

Henry Hodgdon leaves Betty Ann Hewitt to Harry and Eddie.

Ronald Hull leaves his ping-pong ability to Bill Welch. Can you do as well, Bill?

Elizabeth Hurley leaves her dynamic driving to Dirk Wrightson. Do we hear a siren in the distance?

William Jeffords leaves in pursuit of game. Deer, dear!

Marliyn Jerauld leaves her foot-thick dictionary to any enterprising junior with plenty of time.

Donald King leaves his banker's hours to Beverly Keating, who will definitely appreciate them.

Guy Littlefield leaves his educated thumb to Billy Marshall. Hope you get home tonight, Bill!

Robert Lowden leaves quietly, per usual.

Eleanor Maria leaves Duffy White on the cash register, hoping he keeps those figures straight.

Thomas Markt leaves to pester the girls in the square instead of in the corridors.

Jean McDonald leaves her ability to argue over anything to her sister Phyllis, who has already proven her worth.

Jeanette McDonald leaves to join Herby.

Margaret Minerva leaves her ability to go with one man to Bunny Yates.

Marie Minerva leaves Norma Russell a pleasant prospect in Attleboro. Or will Dorchester do?

Arnold Mitchell leaves his athletic ability to his sister Elaine.

Robert Murray leaves his genius for drawing to some talented junior. They can, at least, attempt to have a yearbook as good as ours.

Eleanor Niethold leaves with a Naval escort. Catch?

Kenneth Ornell leaves for Connecticut Women's College to renew an old acquaintance. Hi, Jane!

Stanley Parrish leaves his quiet composure to Charlie McNair. Don't get caught, Charlie!

Gwenith Peters leaves for good. We're all sorry to see her go, but we wish her every success.

Mary Pratt leaves with tears in her eyes. Are they for the school or for Rikki, Dogie?

John Pruett leaves. What'll the Varsity Club do now?

John Raeder leaves his back seat in 105 to any junior who can use it to advantage.

Shirley Ritter leaves her glamour girls to George O'Dea. Need we say more?

Robert Rodman leaves his truck to Spencer Hall to run errands. Keep your eyes on the road, Spence!

Carole Sacks leaves her pile of gym excuses to any girl with her love of tumbling.

Evelyn Shankman leaves her smooth sophistication to any junior who thinks she can fill her shoes (6½ AA).

Arthur Smith leaves, concluding that, in order to avoid five o'clock shadow, he'll have to shave every hour on the hour.

Joan Steinmetz leaves her ability to feel at home in a new town to any incoming senior.

Beverly Stewart leaves her composure to Judy Bradford for use on senior play night.

John Stressenger leaves, making sure Carolyn is right behind him.

Patricia White leaves looking as pretty as ever.

To Miss Newton we leave a 1951 scooter to follow next year's photographers around.

We leave Miss Schaal with a good (?) impression of the senior class.

We leave Mr. Kaufman a supply of atomic heaters to warm the laboratory.

We leave Mr. Conroy a harder working P. A. D. class, we hope.

To Mrs. Keyes we leave a better tumbling team.

We leave Mr. Mahoney a discount in Parker's Toy Store.

We leave Miss Johnston a new set of lungs for those that she wore out on our shorthand classes.

We leave Mr. Konsavage with high hopes for the best basketball team ever.

To Miss Chase we leave a much needed supply of Alka-Seltzer, presuming her next homeroom is as kind to her as we were.

We leave Mrs. Higginson a class who, at least, knows the difference between a sewing machine and a stove.

To Mr. Taplin, we leave a new Glee Club. He needs it.

We leave Mr. Koskella in the midst of moving into his new house. If you ever need a baby-sitter, call on us.

To Mr. Clark, we leave the well-behaved, intelligent, and amiable class of 1951. What happens in 1952?

Ye Olde Study Hall

Shrieking, laughing, all are yapping
'Cept the one that's back there napping.
It seems to be a free-for-all —
No, sir! It's a study hall!
The teacher enters with a frown,
All right people settle down."
Everyone hears but little Jack
Who's stuffing paper down Suzie's back.
Passing notes, chewing gum, and
Whispering stops its steady hum.
Study? I'd rather play ball;
This is ye olde study hall!

LEISURE LIFE IN 1950

to have a democracy in 1950 when their activities seem to contradict all known theories.

While our afternoon snack consists of carrots, asparagus, and turnip juice-shakes to generate vitality, they are known to have drunk (refrain from giggling) "cokes." What possible nourishment could they have derived from this uninviting-looking brownish concoction?

Our first consideration after leaving school is to hang by our thumbs to develop our muscles whereas the afternoon entertainment of the nineteen-fiftians was pursued at Moulton's, this being the neighborhood haunt. On arriving, the males of the species would commence to ogle the females (so-called glamour girls) to whom we wouldn't give a second look. This behavior was known as drugstore cowboyism. After seeing the attire of these males, we question the validity of their titles. But customs change, and so does leisure life. Who knows that fifty years hence will not bring laughs in our direction also?

SENIOR PLAY GREAT SUCCESS

On December 9, 1949, the class presented the annual senior play entitled "Don't Take My Penny". The cast, under the capable direction of Miss Dorothy Chase, gave an outstanding performance. Properties, costumes, make-up, publicity, and ticket committees together with the stage managers, electricians and the messenger did their share in making the production a success. Everyone worked long hours, but the splendid cooperation on the part of all made the work fun.

We wish to thank Mrs. Douglas Norwood, who offered her assistance as make-up director, and also our parents and friends who shared our enthusiasm and helped to make the play the success it was. Most of all, however, we wish to express our appreciation to Miss Chase for her patience and invaluable assistance throughout our rehearsals. We are indeed grateful for the direction she gave us.

HONOR SOCIETY INSPIRES SHARON HIGH STUDENTS

The Honor Society is one of the highest attainments that a student can achieve in high school. Under the able leadership of Mr. Harold A. Clark, our principal, its members have shown themselves outstanding in the qualities for which they are selected: character, scholarship, leadership, and service.

The seven new members of the Society, consisting of five seniors and two juniors, were installed by Gwenith Peters and Philip Bonz, who were chosen in their junior year.

Sharon High is justly proud of its representatives in this nationally important organization.

DEMOCRACY AT WORK IN SHARON HIGH

Under the untiring efforts of Miss Barbara Burns, the Student Council has become the central organization of Sharon High School. Their undertakings this year include the presentation of the question of season tickets to the student body, the selling of candy at basketball games, the sponsoring of a drive for children's clothing, the appointing of student monitors for traffic duty, and the revising of their four-year-old constitution. Each Wednesday they inform the student body at chapel, which they conduct, of the matters discussed at the Council meeting of that week. They are planning to attend a meeting of the Southeastern Branch of the Associated Bodies of the Councils of Massachusetts and a state meeting in the spring. They should be justly proud of their accomplishments this year.

GIRLS' VARSITY INCREASE SCHEDULE

Although it has not been the custom for our girls to play outside of Sharon, they have, in the last two years, established a limited program with the schools of a few of the surrounding towns, for basketball is the favorite sport in Sharon High School. All those who participate show sportsmanship and cooperativeness in their playing. Winning a game, although it is important, is not the main point; the fun and friendliness are the greatest attraction. The teams greatly appreciate the leadership and interest displayed by Mrs. Keyes.

Seven Smiles of Victory

Cheer for our boys

Looks hard, doesn't it?

Don't drop her again!

The whole crew

CHEERLEADERS SPUR TEAM ON TO VICTORY

The cheerleaders of the 1949—1950 basketball season have done a splendid job of boosting the morale of their team, and in arousing the school spirit of their classmates. Because of their many new cheers and excellent showmanship, they have, under the excellent leadership of Roberta Guillet, earned the esteem of the basketball fans of Sharon and surrounding towns. To the junior members, we express our hopes for another year of successful cheering, and our best wishes for loads of luck.

First Row: James Boyden, Robert Deltano, Thomas Cleveland, Captain; Spencer Hall, James Hagan.

SHARON HOOPSTERS DRAW LARGE CROWDS

The sparkling Sharon hoopsters, under the able direction of Mr. William J. Konsavage and captained by Thomas Cleveland, enjoyed only a fair season. Although winning only four out of ten league games, they played excellent basketball.

We hope that the boys are successful in the Brockton Tournament; and in the years to come, we hope that Sharon will rise to the top of the Hockamock League.

Word of Appreciation to Our Advertisers

The members of the Class of 1950 wish to take this opportunity to thank all of their advertisers who have helped to make the "Marsengold" possible, especially the Sharon Board of Trade without whose cooperation we could not have had this yearbook.

We hope that you will patronize our advertisers, for in so doing you will help both them and us.

Congratulations

GATHERING SPEED

Graduation and the inevitable speed-up of one's career might well be compared to the gathering speed of a starting automobile. Commencement Day is the shifting from "first" into "second" or "high." The acceleration is slackened only for an instant.
